Choosing your remedies

Most people find it reasonably easy to select their own remedies. All you need to do is find the remedy or remedies that seem to reflect your situation, mood or personality the best. You can mix up to seven together at a time. All of the states described are everyday human emotions that we all feel from time to time. Even the most negative state has a corresponding positive quality that shows us what we can be when we are fully ourselves.

Dr Bach chose seven different groups under which he categorised the 38 Bach Flower Remedies. Use the groups on the table over leaf as a starting point to help you make your remedy selection.

Recognising exactly how you feel is the key to choosing the right remedy or selection of remedies for you. If you have selected more than seven remedies, cut down your choice by concentrating on how you feel now. Then match the exact mood you're in with the appropriate remedy. If a feeling isn't affecting you today you don't need a remedy for it.

For example, if moving house is making you feel frustrated and impatient, try Impatiens. And if you are finding it hard to adapt to your new neighbourhood, try Walnut.

Sometimes we find it difficult to be honest with ourselves. Few of us want to be seen as jealous or intolerant, but once we have admitted how we feel, we are halfway towards balancing that emotion. So, if you have trouble working out your feelings, why not ask someone who knows you to help?

Taking your remedies

The remedies are easy to take. Here are some ideas.

- Add two drops of each chosen remedy to a glass of water. Sip from it as often as you want, but at least four times a day for longer-term issues.
- For convenience when taking several remedies at once, add two drops of each chosen remedy to an empty 30ml dropper bottle. Top up with mineral water, adding a teaspoonful of brandy or cider vinegar as a preservative if you wish. From this bottle take four drops at least four times a day. 30ml dropper bottles can be bought ready-to-use from your Bach Original Flower Remedies stockist.
- For immediate use you can take the remedies undiluted direct from the stock bottle. Just drip two drops on your tongue, and repeat as necessary.
- You can use the remedies externally. Just a few drops on the lips, temples or pulse points is effective and allows for first-aid use.
- When using Rescue Remedy® use double the amount you'd use for the single remedies. Put four drops of Rescue Remedy on your tongue or into your glass of water or treatment bottle, rather than two.

Take your Bach Original Flower Remedies as often as you need to. They are also safe for young children. If you are pregnant please consult your doctor or midwife.

Remember that the stock remedies are preserved in alcohol. Dilute the remedies or use them externally if this is an issue.
